Misclass plots show that for poorly predicted genres Comedy and Drama the algorithm had a harder time searching for an optimal value of lambda- can be seen by comparing to the the misclass plots of genres with high accuracies, Adventure and Animation. The classification error rises towards higher values of lambda for both of the poorly predicted genres, and the ranges of the minimum lambda values are either too far or too close to be impactful.